

Boulevard Acquisition Corp. II and Estre Ambiental S.A. Name Three Independent Directors for Board of Combined Company

Majority Independent Board Will Possess Strong Waste Management Experience and Compliance Expertise

New York and São Paulo, September 20, 2017 – In connection with their previously announced business combination, Boulevard Acquisition Corp. II (NASDAQ: BLVD) (“Boulevard”) and Estre Ambiental S.A. (“Estre”), today named three independent members of the future board of the publicly traded combined company that will result from the transaction (“Newco”):

- Richard Burke, chief executive officer of Advanced Disposal (NYSE: ADSW), the fourth largest non-hazardous solid waste company in the U.S.;
- Klaus Pohle, former president of the Accounting Standards Committee of Germany, which advises the German government and the European commission on the process of approving new international accounting and financial reporting standards; and,
- Robert C. “Bob” Boucher Jr., chief executive officer and president of Wheelabrator Technologies, the second largest energy-from-waste business in the U.S.

Messrs. Boucher and Burke will bring to the board of Newco a combined 56 years of waste management industry expertise, and Dr. Pohle possesses more than three decades of experience in finance, audit and compliance across a range of industries.

“I am pleased that Richard Burke, Klaus Pohle and Bob Boucher will be joining Newco as independent members of the board of directors,” said Estre chief executive officer Sérgio Pedreiro. “These respected executives possess deep waste management industry and compliance insight and expertise and will provide strong governance oversight to Newco as it continues to serve as the leading waste management company in Brazil, pursuing international best practices in responsible waste disposal and sustained value creation for shareholders.”

In the coming months, Boulevard and Estre expect to name additional members of the Newco Board, which may include other industry leaders.

As announced on August 16, 2017, Boulevard and Estre have entered into a definitive agreement under which the two companies will combine under a new holding company, which will be publicly listed with an anticipated initial enterprise value of approximately US$1.1 billion.

Estre provides a full range of waste-related and environmental services to a public of more than 31 million people daily in seven Brazilian states where approximately 50% of Brazil's population is concentrated. The Company focuses on collection, treatment and disposal of non-hazardous and hazardous waste to municipal, industrial and commercial customers. Showing consistently high-single-digit revenue growth (excluding divested operations) in an expanding market, Estre is favorably positioned to lead in a fragmented industry with increasing regulatory requirements for environmentally-sound waste disposal.

Additional Background on the Three New Directors

Richard Burke brings to the Newco Board over 28 years of leadership in the waste management industry. Since 2014, he has served as CEO and a board member of Advanced Disposal, the fourth largest solid waste company in the U.S., as measured by revenue. Prior to serving as CEO, Mr. Burke served as president of the company with responsibility for mergers and acquisitions, purchasing, risk management, human resources and strategic planning. Previously, he served as president and CEO of Veolia Environmental Services North America, leading the company's water, waste and energy management solutions business in the U.S. and Canada. Prior to joining Veolia, Mr. Burke spent 12 years with Waste Management in a variety of leadership positions. He is past chairman of the board for the Environmental Research and Education Foundation and continues to support the foundation as a Board Director. Mr. Burke holds a bachelor's degree from Randolph Macon College.

Klaus Pohle possesses more than 30 years of experience in finance, audit and compliance practice. He was from 2004 to 2016 a member of the board of Sanofi SA, a global pharmaceutical company, serving for eleven years as chairman of the board's Audit Committee. Prior to Sanofi, Dr. Pohle was the deputy CEO and CFO of global pharmaceutical company Schering AG for over 23 years. Before Schering, he spent 14 years in senior executive roles at global chemical company BASF AG, including in Brazil. From 2003 to 2006, Dr. Pohle served as chairman of the Accounting Standards Board of Germany. He is a Professor of Accounting and Auditing in the faculty of business administration of the Technische Universität Berlin. He holds a doctorate in economics from the Technische Universität Berlin, a doctorate in law from Johann Wolfgang Goethe Universität Frankfurt, and a master of laws (LL.M) from Harvard Law School.

Bob Boucher has more than 28 years of waste management, environmental services and energy industry expertise, with successful leadership experience across a range of large public corporations and private firms. Since 2015, he has served as CEO and president of Wheelabrator Technologies, the second largest waste-to-energy business in the U.S., with operations in the U.K. and the U.S. Prior to Wheelabrator, Mr. Boucher was the CEO of Cleanaway (formerly Transpacific Industries), Australia and New Zealand's largest public waste company focused on solid and liquid waste services; and EVP of Operations for Republic Services, holding responsibility for the company's operations throughout the U.S. Previously, Mr. Boucher served as the CEO and president of Synagro Technologies, America's largest recycler of organic residuals for water/wastewater management, and held leadership roles at Allied Waste Industries, Waste Management of Greater Boston, and American Waste Systems. Mr. Boucher holds a post-graduate degree from Maine's Bridgeton Academy.
